1. Open the hood and remove the plastic battery cover by turning the attaching pins and lifting out.

2. Remove the plastic radiator support panel cover by removing the 10mm hex bolts across the back edge and the torx screws across the front edge.
3. Apply masking tape to the painted (or chromed) openings of the factory grille (as shown).

4. Align one of the "Q" grille sections into place and press the outer stud firmly against the plastic to indent it.

5. Drill the outer stud mounting holes with a 1/4" drill bit.

6. Trim the closed tip from the supplied vinyl caps and install them onto the outer studs welded to the back of the upper "Q" grille sections.

7. Remove the protective film from the grille section and clean off the glue residue using a mild solvent or adhesive remover followed with alcohol or glass cleaner.
8. Align the grille section into place and install an ESNA half nut onto the stud protruding from the outer stud (A) and install a 1" flat washer and ESNA half nut onto the inner stud (B) and hand tighten.

9. With the grille in place, remove any protective masking tape that could get caught behind the grille section once it is tightened.
